

Targeted RECLAIM and Behavioral Health Juvenile Justice (BHJJ)

State Fiscal Year 2015

TARGETED RECLAIM

Targeted RECLAIM funding was awarded to the six counties that historically commit the most youth to the Ohio Department of Youth Services (DYS). Prior to the initiation of Targeted RECLAIM in FY 2010, these counties accounted for 63% of the total admissions to DHS (FY 2009), but received only 26% of the RECLAIM funds to courts.

Requirements for the funding include the following:

- Courts commit to maintain or further reduce DHS admissions from FY 2014 in FY 2015.
- All programs funded must be either model or evidence-based programs.
- Programs can only serve felony youth that would otherwise be committed to DHS.
- All program youth must be assessed using the Ohio Youth Assessment System (OYAS).
- Courts must participate in quarterly work group meetings and submit youth data.

In order to assure the quality of the programs and the fidelity of implementation, experts from the University of Cincinnati and Kent State University (now Case Western Reserve) have been involved in the initiative from the beginning. Their involvement includes training the applicants on model and evidence-based programs, reviewing applications, providing on-site coaching and quality assurance, data collection, data analysis and evaluation.

EXPANDED TARGETED RECLAIM

In January 2012, Targeted RECLAIM funding was awarded to eight additional counties that collectively committed 197 youth to DHS in FY 2011. Butler County was added to the initiative in FY13. These nine counties adhere to the same funding and quality assurance requirements as the initial six Targeted RECLAIM counties except that higher risk misdemeanor offenders are included when they are on a trajectory to DHS. These counties also have the opportunity to share services with surrounding counties.

BEHAVIORAL HEALTH JUVENILE JUSTICE (BHJJ)

BHJJ funding was awarded to the original six counties receiving Targeted RECLAIM funding. The purpose of BHJJ is to enhance and expand the local child-serving systems' ability to identify, assess, evaluate, and treat serious juvenile offenders having behavioral health needs and their families through the provision of evidence based and effective services that are culturally appropriate. In FY 2014, BHJJ was expanded to include Lorain County and two collaborative BHJJ projects with Trumbull and Mahoning, and Wayne and Holmes Counties.

Common elements of the BHJJ projects include:

- A partnership between the Juvenile Court and the Alcohol, Drug Addiction & Mental Health Services Board.
- Effective models of assessment, treatment planning, and family-focused community-based evidence-based practices.
- The pursuit of first and third party reimbursement, including Medicaid.
- Assessing youth using the Ohio Youth Assessment System (OYAS).
- Participation in an extensive evaluation by Case Western Reserve University.
- The identification and diversion from DYS and the juvenile justice system of serious juvenile offenders with serious behavioral health needs and a commitment to maintain DYS admissions at FY 2014 levels.
